myself and a few friends think it would be a great idea to have a wider variety of merchandise available, eg sweatshirts, t-shirts, shorts and joggers. we also think it would be great to have options with both the new logo and the coat of arms logo.

thanks for your consideration.

GCU Must Seek SA Advance Input On All Future Emails / Other Comms To Students

by James Vincent Luke Waters 30 August 2020, 17:51

Category: Glasgow Caledonian University

Over the summer, too many email have come from the university corporately which have caused spasms of confusion, worry and doubt among students. Talking about a "return to campus" in a headline is atrocious communicating when in the full explanation you go on to say that all lectures will be online and only a few activities for a small number of courses will be on campus. Students need plain language emails with the key messages up front, they shouldn't be made to struggle to figure out simple news. The priority for communication should be clarity and understanding, not appearance.

This idea proposes two policies:

that the university corporately send no further emails to the student body before sharing them with the Student President that all departments do likewise with the appointed student Department Rep for their department

...so that they may offer advice on clarity and succinctness of message in the content of the email (or other communication method) before they are sent to students.

Access to parking

As a full time carer, at times, my husband has flare ups due to his condition, this can result in lengthy hospital stays 60 miles away from our home, we have a disabled badge and yet i am unable to access this at the university. I missed almost 3 weeks of trimester A due to him being hospitalised as i simply could not afford to park in town - as well as park at the hopsital! Yes, £2 per hour to be exact!

Surely there can be some contingency built in for carers when these flare ups happen - I am not looking for preferential treatment but a little latitude would have gone a very long way and kept some sort of normality in a very trying situation!

Request University to track student suicides

According to 2019 statistics (theferret.scot) only ONE Scottish University records student deaths by suicide (and only as of 2016) - University of Stirling. Keeping a record of suicides can help improve mental health services by showing how they are truly lacking, and also help by removing mental health stigma associated with suicide. This is supported by the Scottish Association for Mental Health, which says that by reviewing suicide deaths it can aid in developing better suicide prevention. It can also help universities see patterns and respond effectively. University of Stirling has already done so - information about the increase in suicide deaths (3 in 2018/2019, compared to 0 in the previous academic year) has allowed both students and staff to petition the university for more mental health advisers, which the university has recruited. This info was obtained through the Freedom of Information request. In the UK, an All Party Parliamentary Group on Students found that roughly 33% of students have had suicidal thoughts over the last year. Suicide should not be surrounded by silence. Universities should step up and do their part.

Really wish there was a microwave on campus for students to use. Would find this great for lunches, I know other unis like Strath have one. So annoying eating cold food all the time!

To encourage health and mental well being - can we map out a mile walk around our Glasgow Campus? it would also be a good way for students to meet other students from other schools as we dont seem too good at interacting at times!!

Change Care-Experienced Policy lead remit to include estranged students.

In previous discussions with the care-experienced officer, it is my understanding that these two representation areas can often go hand-in-hand and it would mean that the students who identify as estranged can also be represented. Following a meeting with the corporate parent steering group, it is my understanding that we do have estranged students at GCU - even though it may be a small cohort, it means they can be included in our representation structure at GCU Students Association. :)

It would be a good idea to have an easily accessible basic first-aid kits and medications on campus and student accommodation.
